KALAMAZOO, Dec. 4.-Ira Stretch, a im to the amount of $17,000. He was not a prosperous farmer, but became merchant, and not being content ith a good business tried to emulate Old Hutch? and run the Chicago pard of trade. He has neither farm runiness now.

Conductor Under the Wheels.

Cadillac, Dec. 4.—Cobbe & Mitchell's and organized a travel company in San Francisch in the yard here about 11 o'clock this morning. The train, after unloading at the mill, was returning at a slow speed, when Green went between two cars to adjust a coupling. While there a sliver on one of the rails caught his foot and threw him under the 'wheels. One car passed over both his legs, but as it was only a light logging truck, it is not thought the injury will prove fatal. Green was very fortunate in having received an accident insurance policy only a short time before the injury.

Murder of an location.

TRENTON, Dec. 4.—While a farmer named Newman was plowing his field just across the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway tracks his plow struck a box which had been recently buried. He at first thought he had found a box of money, but upon examination he found it contained the body of a child evidently about a month and a half old. Its skull had been broken in three parts, although no blood was found upon its garments. It was very neatly diressed and its head rested on a little pillow. There is no clew as to the parents of the child. TRENTON, Dec. 4.-While a farmer

Murdered by an Adventuress.

Tacoma, Dec. 3.—Gypsy Ashton Boyd, the courtesan who last night killed T. H. Boyd, editor of the Olympian, is known in almost every state west of the Missouri. Her mother lives in Butte, Mont. She is known to have attempted to blackmail several Tacoma men within the past few days.
It is believed here that sne killed Boyd because he would not give her all the money she wanted. She is one of the handsomest women on the coast and is highly educated, speaking five languages. Boyd got $25,000 from his wealthy Philadelphia father in 1886, and organized a travelling theatrical company in San Francisco, but soon lost his fortune.
